“father* righteous, and θάρσος cosmos thee not has come to know, i but thee have come to know, and these have come to know that thou me sent out.” john’s saxareba 17:25

father cloaked flesh, for in oneness of anointed-one and ekklesia, own children-with supernaturally one and ineffably distinct he to have been. father, in oneness of anointed-one and ekklesia, his hand-right-at already enthroned has every right-baptized human on divine and royal throne. spiritholy in us, is now-being god’s kingdom, which every right-baptized human we can, experience; and god’s kingdom not is about own authority, which father to own children shares with us, rather about this complete oneness, which father-with we have and which enables us him-with lackless relationship of love.
